FEAR SCHOONER HIT BY A. W. PERRY IS LOST

Boom of Missing Vessel Picked Up by Steamer's Boat.

Halifax, N. S., May 17.—It is feared that the crew of some unknown schooner perished as a result of the collision with the Boston-bound Plant Line steamer A. W. Perry. A wireless received in Halifax this morning stated that the second boat sent out by the Perry had found the boom of a vessel.

Unless she was sailing with a free sheet, therefore, it seems as if the schooner must have been so seriously damaged that she could not stay afloat.

The collision occurred off Little Hope, not more than 12 miles from Liverpool Harbor.

The Harbor master there states that nothing has been heard of any damaged vessel. Had the schooner been but slightly damaged she would certainly have been able to make Liverpool. The weather has been very thick on the coast for two days, and it was this fact that not only caused the disaster but which hampered all search.

M. H. Nickerson of Clark's Harbor, superintendent of life saving stations, who is one of the most experienced men on the coast, expresses grave fears, but says that he can see no evidence in support of the theory that the vessel struck was the Ann J. Fraher from New York. He thinks it is a fishing schooner which would carry about fifteen men.

The A. W. Perry will likely arrive at Boston early tomorrow morning. Had it not been for delay on account of the collision she would probably have reached there at 10 o'clock tonight, but that and the prevailing thick weather will keep her back till morning.

EARLY MORNING FIRE ON WATER STREET

Grocery Store of Joseph Cohen Badly Damaged

The Combination Chemical was called out at 1:30 o'clock this Saturday morning by a fire in the grocery store of Joseph Cohen on Water street. The first knowledge that there was a fire was when the family living overhead of the store were awakened by the crying of a child and the smell of smoke. When the Chemical arrived a lively blaze was in progress and it was only extinguished after a hard fight and good work on the part of the men attached to this valuable piece of apparatus. The contents of the store were damaged to the extent of $500 and considerable damage was done to the interior of the store which is owned by Ralph Prefethen. Both building and contents of store were insured. This morning Chief Randall made an investigation and is of the opinion that the fire was caused by rats getting at matches as several boxes of matches were found gnawed as well as a dead rat under the store counter.

MYSTERY IN DEATH OF CHILD AT DOVER

Four Children of Thomas McManus Suffer from Mysterious Poisoning Thought to be Caused by Eating Cheap Candy.

Cecilia McManus, youngest child of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. McManus of Dover is dead and two other daughters, Maude and Margaret, are seriously ill as the result of a strange malady which has stricken four children of the family.

Four of the six children of Mr. and Mrs. McManus were taken ill, all not promise to save the two girls having the same symptoms. The girls were first taken with severe headaches and abdominal pains.

Helen, aged 6 years, was seized with convulsions, being the only one thus affected. This was apparently a fortunate circumstance, as Helen has of one family would be stricken at the same time.

Cecilia, the girl who died last night, was taken ill a week ago Friday, and the others on Sunday. The three other children, Maude, aged 9, and Margaret, aged 7, are very ill, and but little hope is expressed for their recovery.

It is thought by many that the children were poisoned by something they had eaten, but their parents can think of nothing in their meals which could have brought about their condition.

Dr. Joseph H. Richard, who has charge of the case says he did not know what caused the children's illness, saying that in a medical book one would find over 100 probable causes. Dr. Richard did not explain, however, the singular fact that four children in one family should be stricken at practically the same time.

Dr. Richard told Mr. and Mrs. McManus Friday morning that he could not promise to save the two girls.

It is the general opinion that the children were poisoned in some manner, probably by something which they have eaten, as it is unreasonable to suppose that four members of one family would be stricken at the same time.

The affair seems mysterious to the general public inasmuch as the children were all healthy, and there is no apparent reason for the sudden illness of all four and also in view of the fact that the physicians advance no explanation as to the probable cause.

Many stories are in circulation in the neighborhood of the McManus home, one being that the illness of the children was caused by eating something which they found while playing in the woods. None of the stories can be confirmed, however.

DETROIT BASE BALL PLAYERS THREATEN TO STRIKE TODAY

Word Sent to Johnson to Reinstate Ty Cobb, or No Game Today

Philadelphia, May 17.—It was just before the game began today that it was learned the Detroit players had sent a telegram to President Ban Johnson to the effect that unless Ty Cobb's suspension was lifted at once they would not play the game scheduled with the Athletics tomorrow. The announcement created quite a stir all around, as it is the first time that an open rebellion has been made against the mandates of the head of the American League.

It is looked upon as a piece of mutiny that will not go very far. Manager Hugh Jennings admitted to night that he had heard threats of a strike merely rumored, but he declined to either deny or affirm this fact. But as the telegram was sent to Mr. Johnson from this city, the threat was actually made.

Jennings was wired by his home office to put a team on the field tomorrow, even if it is necessary to hire a bunch of independent players. And he will have no trouble in finding any number of such here.

There were also reports late tonight that the Detroit players and those of other teams will join with the Athletics in their strike if Mr. Johnson persists in continuing the suspension of Cobb. So far as is known the Athletics have taken no such action. Connie Mack said at midnight he had not any intimation that his players had or would take any such stand and he felt sure that none of the other clubs would be affected in the least.

The very fact that Mr. Johnson had not received the telegram sent by the Detroit players may have a soothing effect upon the threatened uprising. The telegram was sent to Boston, and Mr. Johnson had left there before the telegram arrived.

From Albany it was learned from Mr. Johnson that he had suspended Cobb until such time as he should receive Jennings' report of the mixup in New York. He said he expected to receive it tomorrow morning when he arrives at Cincinnati.

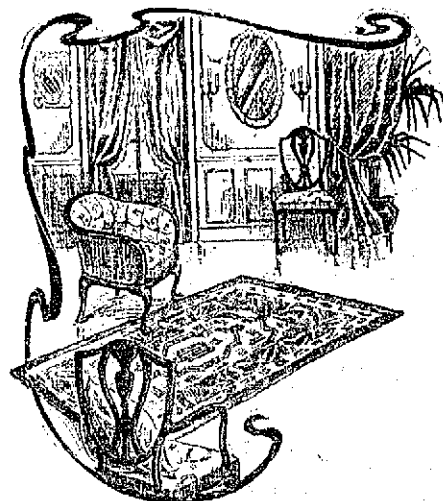

So, under the circumstances nothing is expected to happen in the Detroit team until Mr. Johnson is heard from tomorrow.

Ty Cobb was not in the game today, but sat in the stands near the players' bench. He was busy telling his friends about the assault in New York, and how justified he was in taking the action he did.

Word was received here today that Mr. Johnson said just before leaving Boston that he suspended Cobb as a necessity to league discipline, but he well understood how Cobb felt and personally did not blame him.

Therefore it is not expected that Cobb's suspension will be for many days, and in fact it would not surprise anyone, if after reading Jennings' report in the morning, Johnson would lift Cobb's suspension at once.

To the fans this action on the part of the Detroit players will cause the club managements to go after the loud and vile-mouthed rosters just as

Have Beautiful Furniture at Home---Pay a Little at a Time

American homes are the most beautiful in the world. American children are the most intelligent. Why?

In America we surround our children with beautiful things. We pay a little at a time, but we have these things in our homes to influence our family's culture.

We don't wait until we are old before we can buy beautiful surroundings for our loved ones. The American way is the better way.

Good surroundings improve our earning power. The better our homes the better homes we can afford.

CASCARETS FOR A SICK, SOUR STOMACH

Gently but Thoroughly Cleanse and Regulate Your Stomach, Liver and Bowels while you Sleep

That awful sourness, belching of acid and foul gases; that pain in the pit of the stomach, the heartburn, nervousness, nausea, bloating after eating, feeling of fullness, dizziness and sick headache, means indigestion; a disordered stomach, which cannot be regulated until you remove the cause. It isn't your stomach's fault. Your stomach is as good as any.

Try Cascarets; they cure indigestion, because they immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the decomposed waste matter and poison from the intestines and bowels. Then your stomach trouble is ended forever. A Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box from any drug store will keep your entire family feeling good for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle, cleansing, too.

THE OLD-TIME BARBER

Old-time barbers had to display more variety than their successors. A work published in 1592 describes a barber's greeting to a customer: "Sir, will you have your hair cut after the Italian manner, short and round and then fringed with the curling irons to make it look like a half moon in a mist, or like a Spaniard, long at the ears and curled like the two ends of an old petting; or will you be Frenchified with a love-lock down to your shoulders? The English cut is base, and gentlemen scorn it; novelty is dainty. Speak the word, sir, my scissors are ready to execute your worship's will."

TO KEEP DUST OUT

When there are no sills under the doors dust will find a way to enter the closet and settle upon one's "best clothes." To prevent this, get weather stripping with a felt edge (not rubber) and fasten it to the bottom of the door on the inside. The felt should just touch the floor.

SEEMED A FOOLISH QUESTION

Befuddled Bridegroom Resented Inquiry That at the Moment Seemed to Him Ill-Timed.

One of the most widely known members of the Red Ink set got married some time ago, says the New York correspondent of the Cincinnati Times-Star. It was no new experience for him. In fact, he'd taken the hurdle two or three times before—each time falling at the water jump. To be explicit about it, he's a perfectly fine little poet, as long as he is clutched to the cart. But when he begins to dabble with Old Man Red Eye, he becomes matrimonially and socially impossible. On the occasion of this latest marriage, he had been sober for quite a long while, a phenomenon due in part to the fact that he had been stone broke for an even longer while. And he had bound himself never, never to listen to a bubble.

"I think he meant it, too," said one of his friends. "Anyhow, he's been sober ever since, which is an event that ranks with Hailey's comet in infrequency. But the day of the marriage he needed a little bracer. Knowing his falling, his friends would not give him any money. Neither would his bride-to-be, although she is simply faced with it. Our poor poet went around with his tongue cracking and warping in his mouth—drier than the covered bridge of holy writ. Suddenly it was discovered that the marriage license had not been procured. 'I'll get it,' volunteered the poor poet. 'Give me $5.'"

"He knew that the license cost but one. But no one else knew it. He got the license, and then he filled himself as full of budge as possible with $4 and an hour a half. When he walked up the church aisle he was bubbling—but long training kept him from betraying his condition. His bride-to-be got a sniff of what had happened to her $4, but it was too late to mend them. Our poor poet got along all right until the minister asked him very solemnly: 'Do you take this woman to be your wedded wife?'"

"Whereupon he looked at the preacher in amazement. 'Quit your joking, old top,' said he, in a loud, round tone. 'That's what I'm here for. I'm the original taking kid.'"

IN MAGYAR LAND.

The Magyars, or Hungarians, are distinct from all the other peoples of Europe, the Finns alone excepted. Their ancestors many centuries ago swept down from the plateaus of the Ural mountains upon the rich prairies of Hungary, and by the very force of their inherent character, as well as by their valor at arms, overcame or assimilated the former barbaric inhabitants, and ever since, amid the vicissitudes of almost constant wars and even frequent defeats by many enemies, have maintained their individuality, and for the most part, their undisputed supremacy in southeastern Europe.

In race and language they are allied to the Turks on one side and to the Finns, another branch of the same family tree, on the other. Yet, though related to the Turks they were the most consistent and successful enemies of Mohammedanism in all Europe. In fact, Hungary for centuries was the buffer state between Christian Europe and Mohammedan Asia, and many a hard-fought war did her people wage, almost singlehanded, to repel the tide of Islamism, which often threatened to submerge all Europe.—The Christian Herald.

TOWEL SEWED UP IN HER.

A towel, a yard long and a foot wide, with a red border, was accidentally sewed up inside Mrs. Mollie Myers when she was operated on in St. Vincent's hospital in November, 1905, according to an affidavit filed with the supreme court by Dr. Benjamin Friedman, formerly of this city, now living in Hungary. Mrs. Myers holds Dr. Herman J. Boldt, of No. 30 East Sixty-first street, responsible and has sued him for damages.

Dr. Friedman asserts that when he recovered the towel, after it had remained five weeks inside Mrs. Myers, it bore the label "St. Vincent's Hospital."

"A few days later," alleges Dr. Friedman, "I met Dr. Boldt, who told me that he had sent the towel to the New York County Medical association as a curiosity, indicating the great vitality of the patient." Mrs. Myers told me she was going to sue Dr. Boldt, and I told him of this. He said he was insured against such accidents and that he did not care, as such an accident could not hurt his reputation. He admitted at the time that he might have left the towel in Mrs. Myers' body."—New York World.

LARGEST DIALS.

The art of the clock-maker has achieved many remarkable triumphs. Sometimes it is in a clock wonderful for the complexity of its movements and its busy population of automata that attracts our admiration, like that in the cathedral of Strasbourg; at other times the immense size of the machinery and the dials excites astonishment. This is the case with the celebrated clock in the tower of the Church of St. Rombout at Mechlin. This clock is believed to possess the largest dials that exist in the world. There are four of them, one on each side of the great square tower, and their extreme diameter is nearly thirty-seven and one-half feet. The figures showing the hours are nearly six and one-half feet high, and the hands have a length of nearly 12 feet.—Harper's Weekly.

RICHESON SHOWED GREAT FORTITUDE WHEN TOLD DOOM

Declares That Now He Thinks More of Family and Friends Than Self.

Boston, Mass., May 17.—Rev. Dr. Herbert S. Johnson, the spiritual adviser of Clarence V. T. Richeson, passed out of the death house at 1 this afternoon after a 3 1-2 hours talk with the prisoner. He entered the death house with attorney William A. Morse, counsel for the condemned man, who remained inside after the clergyman's departure.

Rev. Dr. Johnson prepared a statement for the press which he read to the delegation of newspapermen who waited outside to learn how Richeson took the news of the Governor's decision not to interfere with the sentence of the court. The statement was as follows:

"I visited Mr. Richeson at 9.45 with Hon. William A. Morse. After a few moments of conversation he (Mr. Morse) stated frankly to him that the Governor had decided not to interfere with the execution of the sentence pronounced by the court. He then read to Mr. Richeson from one of the newspapers the full statement of the Governor.

"Mr. Richeson received the communication from Mr. Morse with the same spirit of fortitude which he has exhibited from the beginning. He did not collapse in any way, but through the trying ordeal showed the remarkable courage which all along has been the occasion of astonishment to me.

"He stated to me that his principal thought as he faced execution was not for himself, but for the sorrow of his family and his friends.

"Rev. Herbert S. Johnson."

At least there was no evidence of a breakdown, the possibility of which the attorney and the others had feared. The condemned man appeared disappointed but philosophical, and instead of giving way to the feelings which must have filled his soul, remained seemingly undisturbed.

Mr. Morse arrived at the prison about 9.30. He was met by Rev. Mr. Johnson, and they, accompanied by Warden Bridges, proceeded to the death cell. There Mr. Morse informed Richeson that it was futile to hope for executive intervention.

Richeson was seated when Mr. Morse entered and got up to shake hands with his visitors. After a brief exchange of greetings all sat down.

Richeson sat squarely in his chair, as Mr. Morse recounted the result of the Governor's deliberations. He made it clear that there was no use to expect that the Governor would take any further steps. This, however, he conveyed to Richeson in ever, he conveyed to Richeson in sympathetic terms, and then waited for a reply.

It was feared that the blow would cause Richeson to collapse completely, but such was not the case. He did not at once reply, nor did he give way to the grief that must have been his.

Deputy Warden M. D. Allen left the death house at 10.20. Beyond referring to the fact that Richeson had not been overcome at the tragic word brought by Mr. Morse, the deputy warden had no information to give.

At that time Mr. Morse and Rev. Mr. Johnson were still with Richeson. On his way to the death cell at State Prison to break to his client the tragic news of the Governor's decision, Hon. William A. Morse, counsel for Clarence V. T. Richeson, paused a moment on the threshold at 9.30 this morning, to make this reply to a reporter's query.

"Yes, I have abandoned all hope! I cannot do any more; indeed, there is nothing more for me to do. The Governor's decision has removed our last chance. I am about to break the news. Think what that means for him and for me! I would almost wish to change places with him, so hard is my errand."

For all that Richeson knew the dawn today was as full of hope as that of yesterday. No intimation of the sealing of his fate had been given him. He got up at his usual time and at 8.35 sat down to a good breakfast.

There was nothing in the manner of the guards or the prison officials who saw him that betrayed their knowledge of the official action at the State House. Richeson chatted with them and they answered him as cheerily, carefully evading anything that might suggest the one topic of greatest importance.

It being the right and perforce the duty of Richeson's counsel to convey the result of the Governor's deliberations to the condemned man, no one about the prison or none of Richeson's friends would attempt to tell him in advance.

When Chaplain Herbert W. Stebbins called on Richeson at 9.05 in the death house it was merely a visit such as the chaplain makes several times a day. Chaplain Stebbins proceeded as though unaware of what had transpired yesterday, and was cordially greeted by the convicted man. In the office of the prison there was an air of suppressed excitement, and conversation was carried on in subdued tones. The arrival of Mr. Morse was anxiously awaited, for there was no possibility of a change in conditions until he had interviewed his client.

At 9.15 Rev. Herbert S. Johnson, pastor of the Warren Avenue Baptist Church, reached the prison. He, too, waited for Mr. Morse. That Mr. Johnson was laboring under the strain was also apparent and the clergyman showed plainly that his heart had been touched by the purpose of his mission.

It was just 9.20 when Mr. Morse came. That he dreaded the task before him was evident from his manner. Rev. Mr. Johnson went up to him and they shook hands.

Browns Believe They Have A Second Walter Johnson in Pitcher George Baumgardner

St. Louis, May 18.—The St. Louis Browns appear to have discovered something that may be to them what Walter Johnson is to Washington. It is a young pitcher named George Baumgardner. He first attracted attention in the spring series between the Browns and Cardinals, but his real fame came on the first time out in an American league game, when he was pitted against Ed Walsh of the White Sox and outpointed him. Then when he went out his second time and held the same White Sox for fifteen innings without a run his name was on the lips of every fan. Baumgardner is undoubtedly good, and, like so many good men who save come into the majors, he is as "green" as they make them. A story is told concerning his first game—that in which he beat Ed Walsh. An admirer remarked that it was a noteworthy feat. Baumgardner was not surprised that way. "Who is this fellow Walsh?" he asked. He was told that Big Ed is considered by many the greatest pitcher in the game. "If he's so good why don't some of the National league club draft him?" inquired Baumgardner innocently. He has since been told that the American league, in which he promises to win fame, is a major organization just like the National.

with me." The body will be taken to Biddeford, Me., today for interment in the family lot in Greenwood cemetery, under direction of Undertaker H. W. Nickerson.

THE RICHARDS AVENUE JOB.
Expansion of the Brick Forced Up a Ridge.

Considerable criticism has been raised over the fact that a ridge has appeared in the brick paving on Richards avenue, but while this was not expected it did not create any great uneasiness on the part of the contractors for the Board of Public Works. The matter can be repaired in a day's time at an expense of only a few dollars to the contractors.

The cause of the ridge, which was only in one place, was due to the expansion of the brick. When the brick was laid provision was made for expansion, by laying every fifty feet a pitch joint, which was supposed to be sufficient to take up the expansion, but it was found that it was not in the lower end of the ridge.

Neither spoke more than a word of greeting, but promptly passed into the office of Warden Bridges for a conference. There they and Warden Bridges talked earnestly for 10 full minutes.

At the end of that time they started out again, accompanied by the warden. As they passed through the yard on the way to the death house a reporter asked Mr. Morse, "Have you abandoned all hope, Mr. Morse?"

It was then that the lawyer, wearied by his labors of months in behalf of the prisoner, made the reluctant answer already given.

BETTER PAID THAN OTHER RAILROAD EMPLOYEES

Some time ago the head of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers announced that if the engineers did not get the increase in wages demanded, "to teach the public a lesson." The implication of this most indiscreet remark was that by tying up the transportation system of the east the engineers would starve the railways and the public into submission. If the public is not more stupid than we think—that remark of Mr. Stone's and the subsequent developments have already taught it a lesson. That lesson is that the labor leaders, like a certain comic opera character, "want what they want when they want it," that they are not willing to submit the question whether what they want is what they ought to want to the same body that determines whether the railways are entitled to have what they want; and that, therefore, the time has come for the national government to take steps to insure that they won't get what they are not entitled to have. For the public interest is very directly and deeply concerned. The wages paid by the railways of the United States constitute almost 65 per cent of their operating expenses. On what wages they pay very largely depends what rates they must receive.

It is a well known fact that the engineers have been paid wages far in excess of those paid other railroad employees and should they be granted an increase, it would cause men in the other branches of the service to expect a similar increase. Owing to the general business depression and lack of passenger and freight traffic many of the larger railroads have hard work to meet their operating expenses, let alone the payment of dividend to stockholders. To the outside public it would seem as though the railroad would be more in a line for a reduction of employees' salaries rather than the well paid men.

MORE PRECAUTIONS NEEDED

On inquiry concerning the lifeboats used on the ships of the United States navy, it develops that they only carry a few and in case of accident the men are expected to make life rafts at a few moments' notice. It is hard for the ordinary observer to see what material there is on board these ships to make these life rafts at short notice, as nearly everything seems to be made of iron. A method has been suggested which seems very suitable for an emergency that a nest of well built dories, well painted and covered with tarpaulin to preserve them, ours enough to supply each dory with two pairs, might be the means of saving many lives and would take up but little room on a ship.

The terrible fate of so many of the passengers of the Titanic calls forth the needs of necessary apparatus for the saving of lives. There should be also two wireless operators on every ship to take turns and keep constantly on the lookout for messages.

The Portland Press says the papers are already beginning to talk and urge safe and sane observance of the coming Fourth of July. The common sense man has progressed wonderfully in the past few years.

In 1909 the casualties of the day numbered 5,307. A year later they dropped to 2,923, and in 1911 the number was reduced to 1,603. Portland certainly tried last year to do the thing right but the weather man had it in for us and spoiled our plans somewhat. It will be recalled that it was the hottest day in the history of Portland. There was at least one death and dozens of prostrations. The great piece-de-resistance of the day's program, the military parade, was marred because so many were obliged to drop from the ranks and because it was apparent that the tramp over the hot pavements was causing actual suffering. Dumb animals by the score were overcome and even over the harbor the yachtsmen found the breezes like blasts from the foundry furnace. This year we shall again do our best to act safely and sanely, but we sincerely hope the weather will be more in our favor than it was a year ago.

Centennial Towns.

There will be six "centennial towns" in Maine this year. Six towns were incorporated by the legislature of 1812, one of which has since grown to be a city. They are the city of Brewer on the Penobscot river, Phillips far up in Franklin county, Bingham on the Kennebec river, Troy in Waldo county, and Foxcroft and Sebasticus in Piscataquis county towns. Most of these places will have a centennial celebration. Some have been planning for some time and local historians have been gathering material for the historical address. The birthdays come in February, but following the usual customs will be held in the summer and in connection with something like an old home week, when the sons and daughters of the town will gather from all parts of the country. There will be family and class reunions, exercises in the town hall, a historical parade, a big dinner, always a "centennial ball" and music by the village band.—Waterville Sentinel.

PRESIDENT TAFT IN FIGHT TO THE END

Bitter Resentment Shown By Him Toward Roosevelt--Making Determined Effort For Ohio's Forty-Eight Delegates.

Cleveland, May 17.—Refreshed by a comparatively quiet day here and prepared to keep up the fight against the renomination of Col. Roosevelt until the end, President Taft left Cleveland early today to take up again his speech-making tour of the State.

Friends of the President were confident today that he was more determined than ever to make the struggle for Ohio's 48 delegates to the Republican National convention as strenuous as possible.

Although Mr. Taft declined to discuss reports published here that he might abandon the fight for a renomination if he should lose in the Ohio primaries, men close to him place no credence in such a report. They point to the fact that hundreds while the one fixed up by Charles Gerry was pronounced the funniest. There was a bean race which created much amusement, Miss Charlotte M. Bickford carrying off the honor of getting 82 beans across the vestry on a knife in short time of two minutes. A reading was given by Miss Frances Gibson and after a nut-driving contest in which Miss Mildred Donnell won five cream and assorted cakes was served. Four new members were taken in. The Phœbus are planning for an entertainment and social in the near future.

There will be Catholic services as usual at Grange hall tomorrow.

Articles of incorporation for the Welfare Traders were filed at Augusta Thursday. This company was organized at Kittery, to acquire funds and from time to time, to use any portion of the same for promoting the well-being of the people of the world as may be thought advisable by those having in charge the disposition of the company's earnings. The capital stock of the company is $10,000, of which nothing is paid in. The directors are George E. Smart, George E. Burnham and Elmer J. Burnham, all of Kittery, and B. O. Preston and Charles C. Smith, both of Boston. George E. Smart is president, George E. Burnham is treasurer.

of delegates to the convention are instructed and pledged for Mr. Taft, and that the Taft workers throughout the country have put up their best fight for him. They figure also on the bitter resentment the President has shown toward Col. Roosevelt, and few of them would concede that he would ever withdraw in favor of his predecessor.

Talk of Mr. Taft's retirement from the race for a dark horse in case he loses Ohio is also discredited by his friends. Advisers around him on his Ohio trip say he will stick in the fight to the end.

The President's schedule for today called for speeches at Laramie, Bellevue, Fremont, Fortaria, Tiffin, Carey, Upper Sandusky, Kenton, Fladway, Bowling Green and a night address at Toledo.

SUFFRAGE NOTES.

THE NEW YORK PARADE.

On May fourth, more than fifteen thousand women showed their allegiance to the great suffrage movement in the most impressive parade ever held in New York City. Never before has organized womanhood so completely awed and inspired the critical and biased New Yorker.

There were pioneer women who had mothered the suffrage cause in its infancy; there were young college women rich with youth and intelligence enthusiasm; there were girls stamped with the factory parlor, who in the hopelessness of their hard lives recognized the power of united womanhood; there were fresh and well-dressed girls, who might not know the meaning of sweatshop, yet who felt that they, too, belonged to this great sisterhood that asked for better things for all.

This great body of women represented all humanity. There were doctors, lawyers, ministers, nurses, teachers, artists, writers, actresses, laundry workers, dressmakers, milliners, domestic servants, industrial workers of every sort. The woman of fashion marched, with the shop-girl. They came from Maine and Louisiana, from California and Ben Ridder, the "Millionaire Tramp" has been there arranging for the comforts of the visitors and says he is to hear half of the expense.

Assisting Ridder will be General Coxe of Ohio, of Coxe's army fame, who will arrive later and who will take charge when required, of the aggregation.

The first convention of this kind was held two years ago in Milwaukee, and was voted a huge success by those who attended. The success of the first so impressed Ridder that he has decided to hold one every year hereafter.

"There will be no trouble at all," said Ridder. "Squawking people, who dread the name of 'tramp' need have no fear. They will all behave themselves as well as other gentlemen."

RAILROAD NOTES

Examiner Ward Prouty of the Interstate commerce commission gave a hearing today at the federal building, Boston, to local shippers of grease and oil who claim that the Boston and Maine railroad has discriminated against them in freight rates in favor of shippers of products derived from petroleum, principally the Standard Oil company.

Drakeham Philpott of the 8.19 morning passenger train for Boston is rapidly recovering from an operation which he recently underwent at the Wentworth hospital in Dover.

When the automatic block signals are put in operation between this city and Kittery, the most head signals at Noble's Island, Green street and Kittery Junction will be abolished.

James Randall, formerly janitor at the Granite State Insurance company, has taken the place of car cleaner in the Boston and Maine yard.

The officials of the Boston and Maine railroad are exonerated from any blame for the train wreck which occurred in Hoosac Tunnel recently, resulting in the loss of life of four employees of the railroad, in a report submitted to the legislators by the Massachusetts railroad commission.

FLOYD ALLEN FOUND GUILTY OF MURDER IN FIRST DEGREE

He Took Part in Shooting Up the Virginia Court Room.

Worcester, May 17.—Floyd Allen, 34, declared the jury had not been first of the Hillsdale mountaineers sworn to do other than to reach one trial for the Carroll County Court. The jury again retired, and soon of his crime in the electric chair at announcement was made that an Richmond. The jury was out all agreement had been reached. When night, and it was not until after 10 court reassembled the foreman read o'clock this morning that the 12 the verdict of "Guilty as charged in men had been brought into agree- the indictment."

Judge Staples held that was not the proper form. The foreman then explained that the verdict was one of guilty in the first degree, the penalty being electrocution. Floyd Allen was charged specifically at this time with the murder of the Commonwealth's attorney, William M. Foster, prosecutor in the Carroll County Court at Hillsdale, he must send the jury back with a last March, when the trial of Floyd few words of caution and advice. Allen culminated in the killing of five persons, Judge Thornton L. Massie, Prosecutor Foster, Sheriff L. P. Webb, Miss Elizabeth Ayres and Major Augustus Fowler.

Arrests of several of the Allen's followed the shooting, but five of the principals escaped to the mountains. Three of them were taken, but Sidna Allen, leader of the clan, and Wesley Edwards, his nephew, still are at large. The other prisoners, it is expected, will be tried immediately.

Sentence was not pronounced on Allen today, as he may be called to testify in the other cases. When the verdict was announced Allen relapsed into despair.

$3.50 Recipe Free For Weak Men.

Send Name and Address Today—
You Can Have It Free and Be Strong and Vigorous.

I have in my possession a prescription for nervous debility, lack of vigor, weakened manhood, failing memory and lame back, brought on by excesses, unnatural drains or the follies of youth, that has cured so many worn and nervous men right to their own homes—without any additional help or medicine—that I think every man who wishes to regain his manly power and virility, quickly and quietly should have a copy. So I have determined to send a copy of the prescription free of charge, in a plain, ordinary sealed envelope to any man who will write me for it.

This prescription comes from a physician who has made a special study of men and I am convinced it is the surest acting combination for the cure of deficient manhood and vigor failure ever put together.

I think I owe it to my fellow man to send them a copy in confidence so that any man anywhere who is weak and discouraged with repeated failures may stop drugging himself with harmful patent medicines, secure what I believe is the quickest-acting restorative, upbuilding, Spot-Touching remedy ever devised, and so cure himself at home quietly and quickly just drop me a line like this: Dr. A. E. Robinson, 4724 Luck Building, Detroit, Mich. and I will send you a copy of this splendid recipe in a plain ordinary envelope free of charge. A great many doctors would charge $3.00 to $5.00 for merely writing out a prescription like this—but I send it entirely free.

One reason that some women don't make good wives is that they spend more time dreaming over pictures of their sex on the cover pages of magazines than they do reading the recipes in the household columns.

Spanish war veterans of the state and their friends are soliciting the aid of the New Hampshire representatives in congress in support of the bill now before that body which provides for a pension of $12 a month for widows and $2 a month for children under 16 years of age, of veterans of the United States service in the war with Spain, the Philippine insurrection and the Boxer campaign in China.

"I suffered habitually from constipation. Doan's Regulants relieved and strengthened the bowels, so that they have been regular ever since."—A. B. Davis, grocer, Sulphur Springs, Tex.

"How'll you swap?" was for years a familiar query on New England highways, from barnyard fences and around the soapstone stove at the "Corner" store. It was the primitive method of seeking possession of a desired article. Except for the pleasure of "dickering" the results were usually unsatisfactory—to one party of the transaction at least. The modern way is to use the small advertisement of The Herald, which is the exchange medium for Portsmouth and vicinity.

EDITH WENDELL ENGAGED.

Daughter of Professor and Mrs. Barrett Wendell to marry Charles Devens Osborne.

The engagement was announced this afternoon of Miss Edith Wendell, second daughter of Professor Barrett Wendell of Harvard and Mrs. Wendell of Pleasant street, this city, and Cambridge, and Charles Devens Osborne, son of Thomas Mott Osborne, of Auburn, N. Y., and nephew of Mrs. James J. Storrow (Helen Osborne).

The announcement was made at a tea which Professor and Mrs. Wendell gave at their home, 358 Marlboro street.

Miss Wendell was a debutante of the past winter and the secretary of her sewing circle. Her brothers are Barrett Wendell, Jr., Harvard '02, whose wife is a daughter of Francis Lee Higginson, and William Wendell, Harvard '09, whose present home is in New York. Mrs. George Wheelock of Shanghai, China, is the sister. Professor Wendell's only living brother is Evert J. Wendell of New York. On her mother's side Miss Wendell's uncles are Charles P. and Malcolm S. Greenough.

Mr. Osborne is of the Harvard class of 1910. After his graduation he made a trip around the world. His late mother was a daughter of Mrs. A. L. Devens of Cambridge, and a sister of Arthur Lithgow Devens.

LOSING MONEY ON MILK.

Producers Claim That It Cost More Than They Are Getting From Contractors.

Continuing their investigation in Boston the New England farmers gave a hearing to milk producers Friday at the Chamber of Commerce, with a larger attendance than Thursday. President Kenyon L. Butterfield of the State Agricultural College, as chairman of the farm commission, conducted the hearing.

Speakers compared notes on cost, and all arrived at the conclusion that where there is not an actual money loss on the milk business on New England farms the income over the cost of production is decidedly small. It was figured by some that the milk actually cost 4 1/2 cents a quart. The speakers who touched on details on the subject were Professor J. W. Sanborn, who has a dairy farm in New Hampshire; George Ambree of Concord, Professor Fred Rasmussen of the New Hampshire Agricultural College and Professor J. M. Trueman of the Connecticut Agricultural College.

This is one of the busiest seasons of the year for the florists, who are having a rush of business which always comes during the weeks preceding Memorial day. Many people are filing orders now for flowers for the decoration of graves of loved ones, and the gardeners are being engaged to work on the graves. Cut flowers and plants are very much in demand for decorating purposes and then there is the annual spring demand for seeds and plants for the home garden.

ATTRACTING YACHTSMEN TO YORK BEACH

Lawis W. Crockett of Manchester in his early spring visits to York Beach finds the outlook for a successful summer season there very promising. He is greatly encouraged by the progress being made in the effort to install buoys in York waters, and feels that the United States government will do something in this line this summer. With the establishment of buoys York will become a center of greater attraction to yachtsmen, and their coming in large numbers will mean much to the social and business life of the community.

It looks as if York Beach would have three, and possibly four, moving picture houses this summer instead of one, as last season. One of the new houses will occupy the site of The Spray, one of the colony of cottages formerly owned by Dr. C. W. Clement, which has been moved away.

'SUBSTIFUGE' AT WORK

MRS. ROSE LILLA BOUNCE ON TO THE JOB.

Of Course She Had Her Own Ideas as to Washing Clothes, but They'd Come Out Whiter Than the "Drivlin' Snow."

"Mis Johnsing cayan" come dis mornin' announced a big, strapping colored woman, as Mrs. Younglove opened the front door of her apartment in response to a long, steady peal of the electric bell, "her baby might down sick an' she got to stay home an' min' it, so she done sen' me as a substifuge—reckon Ah cayn do yo' wash mo' well as sho cayn. 'Wot de matter wif de baby?' Ah dunno 'zackly, but it 'pears to be on de verge ob de rackets, so de docah say—anyway, w'otever 'tis dat ails de chile, it mighty low."

"No'm, Ah ain' had no b'k'us," Two algs an' some sa'rage? Yaas, I reckon dat'll do me—jes' to keep me a-goin' till you has de lunch ready. No, Ah nevah takes coffee. It don' 'gree wif me an' some folks any it turn de complex-un dark. Oh, yaas, Ah cayn drink tea—or choicet ef yo' has it. Well, tea'll do ef yo' ain' got no choicet. Ah ain' so awful part'lar."

"Yo' cert'nly is a m-i-g-h-t-y good cook," admitted the "substifuge," as she rose from the kitchen table after a somewhat protracted consumption of the food provided by Mrs. Younglove. "Now, 'bout de clo's? How yo' wan' 'em washed? Ebe'body has dere own way, an' I talked to obligate de folks I wuks fo' by doin' 'zackly de way dey's dectum to have 'em done. Ah's allus comadatin'."

"Dis heyah yaller soap? Dat w'ot yo' use? It don't wash de clo's clean. Well, de co'se ef yo' wan' me to use it, an' yo' ain' got no oder, Ah'll do mah bes—but it do wens kin' fo' de clo's."

"Yo' wan's de clo's biled? Does yo' bile yo' clo's? No, m-a-a-m, Ah nevah biles clo's. Bilin' jes' discomadates de dirt 'ro de garminks, so yo' cayn' git it out no how. Some ladies dey don' laik bilin' fo' not'in—dey say it make de 'parlament small; but mebbe yo' don' min' dat specially now de weder is cool an' de winders is close."

"Aah! yo' got no oder starch dan dis, honey? 'Tain' de kin' Ah lukes. Ah know it's call de bes', but Ah nevah use dat kin' down Souf. O, yaas, Ah'll use it ef yo' wan's me to, but Ah won' make no pedilations of how de clo's gwine to look. Yaas, Ah seen de wringer oval by de tubs, but Ah don' nevah use none. Usin' wringers is jes' flyin' in de face ob Providence. 'How does Ah wring de clo's?' W'y, wif mah han' of co'se. Dats de rail proper way. De Lo'd nevah mean' dat wringers should be used, 'specially on dese heyah fine pieces. Ah knows a lady use to go out washin', she mo' kill hersef usin' a wringer. She discomadated de spine ob her back an' it nevah got well no mo', so one ob her shoulders is higher'n de oder evah sence. So yo'll jes' have to 's-cuse-me, honey, ef Ah wrings wif mah two han's. Say, honey, yo' just leave dis heyah wash to me. Ah'll do de clo's mah own way dis time. Dey'll come out w'ite'n de drivlin' snow, yo' see de do' do."

"Wot mah name? W'y mah name Mis Bounce—but yo' cayn call me Rose Lilla, dat mah fust name. 'Tain' all de ladies I wuks fo' dat I tells 'em mah fust name, but Ah lukes yo', honey, ah! Ah don' wan' no fomentalties 'bout mah name."—New York Press.

Her Idea of Love.

"I grew up with my romantic ideal of love, and I married," confesses a woman. "The pathetic part of my romantic ideal was that I believed fully and firmly that there was some mysterious power in love that would henceforth glorify every moment of my life."

"True, some of my friends had tried to explain to me that there was a 'glamor' which would 'wear off,' but I laughed at them."

"I insisted that I was not at all sentimental; that I knew we were poor; that I was quite willing and anxious to work—and that I was going to be happy!"

"Well, I have been happy, strangely happy."

"Possibly I may be wrong, but it is a theory of mine that few men spend much time and thought on the business of making their wives happy. The wife, more than any other creature, has to make her own happiness. Her world is made by her way of thinking, and her way of thinking about the man she marries is the keynote of their natural happiness."

St. Mark's Campanile.

The new Campanile of St. Mark's, Venice, raised on the site of the old tower, has been practically complete for months, but it has been wanting the great golden angel which crowns the tower and dominates the city. The angel has been placed in position and the removal of the scaffolding has begun.

The Reigning Sensation.

"Anything exciting in the paper today?"

"I should say so! There's a complete description of Mrs. Puffersbulk's rope of pearls."

Too Much So.

"Filters seems to have an alert mind."

"So alert, in fact, that it never lingers long enough on any one subject to become master of it."

DID HIS WORK THOROUGHLY

Central African Explorer Well Equipped to Make Lasting Record of His Journey.

To make an accurate description of the route taken through an unknown country requires an amount of hard and incessant labor of which few persons have any conception. An instance in point may be taken from the explorations of William Junker in Central Africa.

This man, a Russian by birth, spent five years endeavoring to trace the course of the River Welle, which lies between the headwaters of the Nile and the Congo, with a view to determining the position of the watershed between the two rivers.

When actually on the march he wore a coat designed by himself, having numerous large and small pockets especially arranged for the handy use of his watch, compass, aneroid, thermometer and note books. From one of his buttons hung three pencils; one red for marking his route, another blue for noting the rivers and streams, the third black for recording the times of starting and halting, together with all the more notable incidents of the day's march.

In a little notebook, ruled for the purpose, the exact time of starting was put down, thereafter, at the end of every five minutes the direction in which he was proceeding was determined by a glance at the compass and carefully noted, while occasionally the readings of the aneroid and the thermometer were taken.

A brook crosses the path. With the blue pencil it is instantly designated, as well as the direction of its current and its estimated breadth and depth. Every change in the character of the country is entered, as from wooded to grass lands, or from desert to fertile soil. The prominent objects encountered on the way, with their apparent height and distance, are all indicated. So also are the names of the tribes, and any local information that may have been obtained.

The time and duration of every halt is carefully kept, as it is necessary to know the actual marching time in order to calculate the distance gone. Doctor Junker's uniform rate was a little over three miles an hour.

When the night camp was reached the first duty of the explorer, after supper, was to copy all the notes made during the day into a large book; one page generally, though sometimes two, being used to record a day's march. If the night were clear the traveler's work would end with an observation for determining the position of the camp. This done, he felt that he had earned his right to rest.

In this manner Junker traveled on foot 4,000 miles through a country a large part of which had never before been visited by a white man.—Warper's Weekly.

Found Bones of Soldiers.

During the recent excavations to the historic ground of Abbey lane, Athlone, Ireland, for the common purpose of constructing a sewer, some remarkable finds were made by the excavating party. Not far beneath the soil they came in contact with a large quantity of human remains. There were no symptoms of coffins, but several skulls and bones were thrown up. Evidences of a very substantial foundation, which were also unearthed, four feet under the surface, and the human remains buried apparently in a trench in the immediate vicinity, gave rise to the supposition that the skeletons were those of the Irish soldiers who fought in the sieges near the famous old bridge of Athlone. The Abbey was founded by Cistercian monks the same year that the site of the castle was taken over by King John, with other lands adjoining, which belonged to the monks; and in exchange the king gave to the monastery the lands known today as Monkland, on the borders of the town. A holy water fount was also unearthed.

Hogs Loose and on Rampage.

The sleeping citizens on a certain street in Rochester, N. Y., were awakened the other morning before day, light by an unusual noise. What the awakened people saw was a strange sight when they shivered their ways to the windows and looked out.

street. The roadway was filled with a drove of hogs, whose grunting and squealing had joined to cause the disturbance. A short time before they had been snugly packed in live stock cars on the railroad. But there had been a wreck and thousands of hogs were released from their prisons. They invaded the town and started immediately on the chief business of their existence, the acquirement and disposal of food. Some householders sought the morning paper only to find a disconsolate hog sitting on the doorstep, but many others were startled from time to time by noisy visits to the garbage pails in the alley. And the garbage collectors' wagons were the leaders of processions. It was well into the day before the swine had been rounded up and again put into strong captivity.

Here is a Real Wit.

The town council held a big banquet. One of the councillors came arrayed in a turtleneck waistcoat. He was subjected to a great number of curious looks. At length one of his brother councillors, unable to restrain his curiosity, remarked:

"I say, what possessed you to come in a turtleneck waistcoat?"

"Well," came the witty answer, "I'm not like some of you. Always when I dine I like to keep a check over my stomach."

Affidavit Goes With This.

Mrs. Newlywed (at the breakfast table)—Ceil, dear, I've just made some biscuits this morning. I learned how to make them in cooking school and this is the first time I've tried them at home.

Sampling biscuit, Mr. Newlywed—Um—m—m! Say, Sally, but these are great. Simply great. You're a good little cook, you are, and that cooking school ought to be proud of you. Gimme another biscuit. It would have been a lot better for my digestion if mother had had a little cooking school training and learned how to make something really good the way you do. Thanks; you bet I'll have another.

Ordered Peculiar Tomb.

The following peculiar instructions with regard to his burial were found in the will of the late Rev. James Thornton Newbury, of Killanick Rectory, County Wexford, recently. Deceased objected to being interred in any of the churchyards in his parish on the ground that they were overcrowded. His coffin was not to be screwed or nailed down, no buried in the ground, but in a raised tomb of brick, seven feet wide and eight feet high, and in the roof thereof, a piece of thick plateglass was to be inserted, not less than 18 inches in diameter, and the tomb was to be enclosed with strong iron railings.

Girls Make Trouble for Police.

A mutiny of a serious character occurred recently at a female reformatory in northern France. Three hundred girls, when attempts were made to restore order, took refuge in the dormitories and corridors, smashing everything they could lay hands on. The police were sent for, and when they arrived the girls took on their sabots and used them as weapons to keep the officers at a distance. Further assistance had to be summoned, and it was only after thirty-five of the girls had been arrested, that peace was restored.

Burbank Must Look to His Laurels.

A Greeley, Colorado, man claims to have perfected a seedless watermelon, and is now experimenting with peanuts crossed with sweet peas. He expects to get blossoms and peanuts growing above ground instead of in the earth. He has hopes of producing a succatash plant by crossing corn and beans, and looks forward to growing a breakfast food which will include the qualities of coffee. In the meantime, where's Luther Burbank?

Growth of New York.

Some idea of the growth of New York may be gathered from the fact that during the last five years $25,000,000 new capital has been expended in theatres, $18,250,000 in hotels and $121,250,000 in office buildings.

RECORD STILL STANDS

FEATS OF AMERICAN WAR HORSE ARE UNSURPASSED.

Captain May's Black Tom Said to Have Made Prodigious Leap—Once Ridden Up Flight of Steps and Into Hotel.

"Only less celebrated than Old Rough and Ready's favorite white charger," writes Gen. James Grant Wilson, "was Capt. Charles Augustus May's Black Tom, a magnificent coal black gelding. Captain May was the beau sabreur of Taylor's army in Mexico."

"At the head of his squadron of the Second United States Dragoons, Captain May led a gallant charge against a Mexican battery in the battle of Resaca de la Palma, May 9, 1846, and, leaping Tom over one of the guns, captured General La Vega and the entire battery of six pieces."

"May possessed an unsurpassed military record for leaping with Tom, and it is quite possible one that has never been equaled in the hunting field, or even on the race course. My friend, the late Hon. Francis O. Lowley, perhaps the highest British authority on the subject, gives 34 feet as the greatest distance ever covered by an English horse in a steeplechase or elsewhere."

"Black Tom jumped 35 feet on a wager during the Mexican war, and three years later May made another bet that with a flying start of 50 yards he could leap Tom across a canal 36 feet in width. They came thundering along at a terrific speed, the jet-black steed nearly 17 hands high, and May more than six feet, sitting like a centaur. Tom gave a mighty jump, but fell short, and, of course, man and horse had a very sudden and cold bath, for the attempt was made in midwinter."

"For a Charlie O'Malley leap over a cart loaded with a cord of weed, standing in front of the city hall, the colpel was fined in a Baltimore court. On another occasion the dashing cavalryman rode Tom up the steps of the leading hotel of that city, cavorted around and through several of the principal apartments and then coolly rode out again, as if it was an ordinary, everyday occurrence."

"Thoroughbred Tom was a spirited and rather difficult horse for any one but his master to ride or control. A Maryland friend, wishing to make a fine appearance before a Baltimore belle, borrowed May's steed, but bearing too hard on the bit when near the lady's residence in Cathedral street, Tom began bucking, finally tossing the unfortunate lover into the street and galloping back to his stable.—Bulletin of the S. P. C. A.

Speaking of Colds.

This is precisely what fully two-thirds of the people in this part of the country seem to be doing at this particular time of year and under such weather conditions as have obtained for the last few weeks. This morning the New Englander who can sound a nasal letter clearly and unobtrusively is apt to be an object of envy among his or her associates. There appears to be no escape from the suggestion of a cold. It is even cold comfort to be told by Dr. J. B. Huber, in the New York Medical Journal, that colds seem to be the exclusive privilege of civilization; that the human race did not snuffle much until it began to build houses and to wear clothes, and that an essential element in the catching of colds has been the disturbance of equilibrium in the body through constantly passing from the superheated home into low temperatures without the house. The fact remains that the human race, or that portion of it which is found in this latitude, does build houses and wear clothes, and that it finds houses and clothes indispensable, even when winter is engaged in so mild an occupation as lingering in the lap of spring.—Manchester Union

EDISONIAN THEATRE

The programme for Friday and Saturday consists of the following features:

"The Baby's Shoes." There is a note of pathos in this piece that touches the heart strings in no uncertain manner. The story is of a man and his wife, who have lost their only child, mourning they linger over the empty cradle and the little baby shoes, which they lay away as a memento of their lost darling. Unfortunately the husband takes to drinking, loses his position, falls so low that his wife divorces him and marries a better man. The discarded husband becomes a burglar and on one of his raids, robs the house of his former wife and when he goes home he finds among the loot he has plundered, the baby's shoes, and is stricken with remorse and returns them with the rest of the things he stole, to his wife. He escapes arrest only by the careful planning of his wife. When she dismisses him she gives him one of the baby's shoes and asks him to redeem himself for baby's sake.
